Thursday, 03 November 2016

Health Protection

The Public Health Agency (PHA) has a lead role in protecting the population from infection and environmental hazards through a range of core functions including communicable disease surveillance and monitoring, operational support & advice, and education, training and research.

The effective management of infectious disease depends on high quality surveillance. Surveillance of communicable gastrointestinal infectious disease provides timely information so that public health action can result. This is the Gastrointestinal Infections Annual Surveillance Report for 2015.

Details

Format
A4 Pdf, 30 pages
Target group
Health Professionals

Downloads

Attachment

Size

Gastrointestinal Infections Surveillance Report 2015_0.pdf 951.11 KB

Tags

Professionals

Print